1974 Shapes Up Worst Year Ever For Tornadoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the standpoint of severity, 1974 is shaping up as possibly the worst tornado year in American history.

U.S. government weathermen blame the numerous twisters on especially capricious antics of one of the two high-altitude "jet streams" that help control America's weather.

In response to queries from The Associated Press, the forecasters said:

—There have been 371 deaths and possibly 5,000 injuries so far this year from 658 twisters that have struck in all but 14 states, causing losses in property, crops and animals unofficially estimated at close to $500 million. The death toll so far is the worst since the 450 recorded for the same span in 1953.

—Numerically, the 1974 total of tornadoes could exceed last year's new record of 1,109—a total that led the U.S. National Weather Service to call 1973 "The Year of the Tornado." The only hope that the numerical record won't be exceeded lies in the fact that the peak months for tornadoes—April, May and June—have essentially passed.

But meteorologist Allen Pearson, director of the Weather Service's National Severe Storms Forecast Center at Kansas City, Mo. says that even if the numerical record of last year is not exceeded, many of this year's tornadoes have been "a lot more severe" than those of last year. Pearson said they may be the worst of all years past, although comparisons with prior years are not yet complete. "For example, on April 3 this year—the worst single tornado day so far this century, with 93 storms reported—tornadoes cut pathways totaling 2,000 miles long in 14 states.

"That compares—on just a single day, remember—with a pathway of 5,300 miles last year for 1,109 tornadoes in all but four states for the entire year." For all of 1972, he said, the tornado pathway from 740 tornadoes was 2,400 miles.

"To put it another way, the average tornado in 1974 has been running for 10 miles on the ground—compared with about five miles last year. And the worst tornado from that standpoint so far this year—the one that struck Guin, Ala., on April 3—ran for about 150 miles on the ground," Pearson said. He added these figures:

—The death toll is 371 this year, compared with 65 for the same period in 1973, which had a total death toll of 87.

—So far in 1974, the only states that have not had tornadoes are: Alaska, Utah, Rhode Island and Washington—the only ones to escape last year—plus Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Vermont, Oregon and Wyoming.

Pearson said the April 3 tragedy—and the unusual number of twisters throughout the spring—were caused mainly by the unusual antics of the so-called "sub-tropical jet stream," one of two undulating rivers of rapidly moving air, hundreds of miles wide and 20,000 feet deep that whirl eastward around the northern hemisphere at an altitude of five to nine miles.

Gilligan Sees '76 Year Of Governors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. John J. Gilligan says 1976 will be a good year for governors of major states to run for the presidency, but he says he won't be among them.

"I couldn't just sashay out of Columbus into the primaries," Gilligan says. "First I have no money. I've been in politics 20 years, and I don't have a proverbial pot."

"It's virtually impossible for a governor to go gallivanting around the country like a senator can," he added. "If you want to run you ought to get out of the state capitol. That's what (California Gov. Ronald) Reagan and (former New York Gov. Nelson A.) Rockefeller are doing."

New rules changes for Democratic Party conventions, drafted in part by Gilligan, are expected to work in favor of dark horse candidates and other challengers to front runners like U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. A "variety of delegate factions" not just a few powerful bosses will decide the next candidate after several ballots, Gilligan predicts.

"I doubt that anyone will wrap it up on the first ballot, but Ted Kennedy might be the only one who could," the governor says.

Under the new rules, primary candidates who win more than 15 per cent of the vote will receive proportional representation at the national convention. Traditional state party bosses will control about one quarter of the state delegation.

The rules reduce the importance of primary victories in states where all the delegate votes go to the primary winner, the governor says.

Gilligan's advisors see the governor as keeping options open in 1976 for a move to the national ticket, the U.S. Senate or a cabinet post if the new administration is Democratic.

Gilligan is seeking to insure his flexibility by nomination and election of a good Democrat, State Rep. Richard F. Celeste of Cleveland, as lieutenant governor, aides say.

Gilligan offers yet another scenario: getting re-elected, serving four years and retiring to teach in a university. "That's the one Katie (Mrs. Gilligan) likes best," the governor says.

Lottery Rules For Ohioans Announced

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ohio could make a millionaire every six to eight weeks under lottery rules expected to be announced today.

Under the prize structure to be filed today with the secretary of state, about 25,000 winners will qualify every week for $20 to $300,000, according to The Plain Dealer.

The Lottery Commission had planned to withhold details of the prizes to gain maximum publicity but learned details would have to be made public today when they are filed, the newspaper said.

Drawings are to be held every Thursday, starting 10 days after the first tickets are sold, the commission is expected to announce.

A single three-digit number and a double three-digit number will be picked in the drawing. If any of the series of five three-digit numbers on a player's ticket matches the single number, the player wins $20 and becomes eligible for the million-dollar drawing.

One hundred finalists are expected to share in prizes of $1,000 to $1 million in the drawing. The millionaire would receive $50,000 a year for 20 years.

If the double number matches any two ticket numbers, the holder can win $500 or $1,000 or be entered in the "Buckeye 300," depending on the color coding of the boxes in which the numbers fall.

The Buckeye 300 offers a $300,000 prize, with every entrant assured of at least $15,000.

High Court Postpones Nixon Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today postponed a decision on President Nixon's request for the evidence which led the Watergate grand jury to name him as an indicted co-conspirator.

The court deferred action on Nixon's request until July 8 when it has a hearing scheduled on his claim of executive privilege for tapes and documents wanted in connection with the Watergate cover-up trial.

In a motion filed with the court last week, the President's attorneys sought access to "all transcripts, tape recordings of presidential conversations, grand jury minutes and exhibits" and other material bearing on the grand jury's decision.

They also asked that the evidence be made part of the record the court will consider in its review of Watergate-related matters.

The court has agreed to consider Nixon's claim of executive privilege for the tapes and documents, along with the question of whether a federal grand jury had the authority to name an incumbent president as a co-conspirator.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski told the court Nixon had "failed to meet the high standards imposed by the courts before grand jury material will be released."

PICKAWAY County's "grand old man of harness racing," Forrest Short, will be honored at Scioto Downs tonight on this his 80th birthday. Short is still an active trainer and driver and tonight will be reigning Four Oaks Tia in the eighth race.

Gilligan denied any surplus. "They think we have that much money hidden in a barrel or something," Gilligan said. He added that earlier predictions of state revenues were running almost exactly as expected and charged Republicans with being "irresponsible" and seeking to gain voter approval in an election year.

The biggest change GOP senators made in Gilligan's House-approved measure was the addition of about $37 million in tax relief. They seek to repeal the intangibles tax on bond and stock earnings at a loss of $30 million in existing revenues.

Also included in the bill as it went to the conference committee was an item that increases from $500 to $600 the personal exemption a taxpayer can claim under the state income tax.

Action On Hughes Called Improper

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. attorney general's secret approval of the extension of billionaire Howard Hughes' gambling empire was linked closely to a $100,000 payment by Hughes to President Nixon's closest friend, the staff of the Senate Watergate committee reports.

The report to senators said the apparent decision by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to approve Hughes' purchase of the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas violated the department's own antitrust regulations and "is clothed with the appearance of impropriety."

"Except for the fact that the purchase negotiations ultimately fell through for financial reasons wholly unrelated to antitrust considerations, this is a classic case of governmental decision-making for friends," the report said. The staff report, as yet unapproved by the full committee, was prepared after nearly a year of investigation into the payments made in 1970 to C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a Florida banker and longtime friend of the President's.

Written under the direction of assistant chief counsel Terry Lenzner, the report is the first section of a comprehensive report on the controversial Hughes-Rebozo money.

It explores the theory that a "quid pro quo" link did exist between those payments and efforts by Hughes to expand his hotel and gambling holdings in Las Vegas.

According to the report, Hughes and Robert P. Maheu, then his chief Nevada lieutenant, chose Richard Danner, a Hughes employee and former Miami, Fla., city manager, to act as political liaison with the government. Danner was a friend of both Nixon and Rebozo and, the report notes, became the courier who delivered the $100,000 to Rebozo in cash.

Danner told the committee that after a series of secret meetings from which antitrust attorneys were excluded, Mitchell on March 19, 1970, approved the Dunes purchase.

The report said that after Danner returned from one such meeting,

"Maheu set in motion one of the two $50,000 contributions to Rebozo."

It quoted Maheu as saying there were "certain political obligations that had to be met" as the result of the Danner trip and that a Hughes lawyer had been ordered to pay out the money.

"The essential point here is that Maheu remembered a clear connection between the Danner-Mitchell meetings and the contribution to Rebozo," the committee report said. "I remember telling Danner that we had authority from Hughes to make a commitment to help the administration in some of the congressional races they'd be interested in," Maheu testified. "But I don't know to this day if he took the matter up with Mitchell or someone else," he said.

Mitchell, Nixon's presidential campaign manager in 1968 and for part of 1972, has denied ever discussing campaign contributions. Danner also has said he only discussed the antitrust matter with Mitchell.

Impeachment Witnesses Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is meeting to decide on what witnesses, if any, it should call to clarify the detailed presentation of impeachment evidence it has been hearing since May 9.

The panel also may vote today on whether to subpoena more evidence in the milk fund, ITT and Internal Revenue areas of its inquiry.

Possible witnesses include John W. Dean III, President Nixon's prime accuser regarding Watergate, and ex-White House special counsel Charles W. Colson, who has said in court that Nixon urged him to defame Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

The witness list is expected to be short because the committee is under pressure from the Democratic caucus to make its final recommendations by July 15, party sources say.

Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., has confirmed that he favors a prompt windup, though publicly he has set no firm target date.

Another matter is what evidence should be released publicly. Most Republicans and some Democrats contend that only materials directly related to any impeachment recommendation should be disclosed.

White House counsel Leonard Garment dismissed as "idle speculation" Sunday whether Nixon would refuse to comply with a Supreme Court order to surrender further Watergate evidence. In a televised interview, he also said it is "invalid as well as idle" to suggest that any such action would lead to a constitutional crisis.

Arguments are scheduled for July 8 on special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's demand for tapes of 64 presidential conversations sought for use in the Watergate cover-up trial upcoming in September.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ruled for Jaworski last month. Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, appealed the Sirica decision and at Jaworski's request, the question is being brought directly to the Supreme Court.

Garment said Nixon does not view himself as above the law and said the impeachment process "is the way that the President is held within the law."

Asked why Nixon has refused to comply with House Judiciary Committee subpoenas for more evidence, Garment replied: "Cooperation in the impeachment proceeding does not mean that he abandons the responsibilities of his office."

"Were he to accept the unilateral determination of the Congress" on evidence, "obviously the result of that would be that every piece of paper in the White House would be open to examination," Garment said.

He said he couldn't "speak with any certainty" on Colson's allegation that Nixon encouraged a smear campaign against Ellsberg.

In related developments: —Two Judiciary Committee members, Reps. William Hungate, D-Mo., and David W. Dennis, R-Ind., said Sunday rejection by Nixon of a Supreme Court decision on the Jaworski subpoena would be seen by as "a very serious matter" by the impeachment panel.

—Vice President Gerald R. Ford said he thinks the impeachment movement is losing steam and that the House will be unable to muster sufficient votes to impeach.

—Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said Sunday Nixon is being "contemptuous of the courts and of Congress" and has "acted as though he were the sole power" in the country.

Mideast Withdrawal Nears Completion

By The Associated Press

The Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement in the Golan Heights neared completion today, leaving only the ruins of the town of Quneitra to be given up.

Israeli troops on the Golan Heights handed a one-mile-wide strip of captured Syrian territory over to United Nations forces and retreated to positions west of the 1967 cease-fire line.

The strip was the last part of the 300-square-mile Syrian bulge captured during last October's Arab-Israeli war. The Israeli withdrawal was the third phase in the disengagement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The disengagement is to be completed by Wednesday with the Israeli evacuation of Quneitra, the war-ravaged Golan Heights capital captured by Israel in 1967 war.

Israel's semiofficial state radio reported the withdrawal from southern Lebanon of Syrian soldiers who acted as spotters for artillery batteries that attacked Israeli positions on Mt. Hermon during and after the October war. Israel had charged that the Syrian spotters disguised themselves as Palestinian guerrillas.

In Jerusalem, Premier Yitzhak Rabin said Israel's only chance for survival is to strengthen its defenses while searching for peace. He told a group of Zionist leaders that Israel would continue to attack Arab guerrillas in Lebanon "in every place and at every time it deems necessary."

Yosef Tekoah, Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, said that if the U.N. Security Council meets to discuss Israel's air attacks last week on Palestinian strongholds in Lebanon, he would call for sanctions against countries that allow terrorists to operate from their territory.

The U.S. Navy announced that a Navy landing craft, the 522-foot LST Barnstable County, had moved halfway down the Suez Canal and anchored off Ismailia to serve as a base for American units helping to clear the waterway of wrecks and explosives. The Barnstable County was the first American ship in the canal since the 1967 war closed it.

Conference Committee Eyes Appropriations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An embattled supplemental appropriations bill that failed to make it through the legislature earlier this month comes before an interim conference committee of the Senate and House today.

The six-member panel is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats whose deliberations ground to a halt when the legislature adjourned June 12.

House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, one of the House conferees, indicated the legislature could be finished for the year unless the committee is able to reach a compromise.

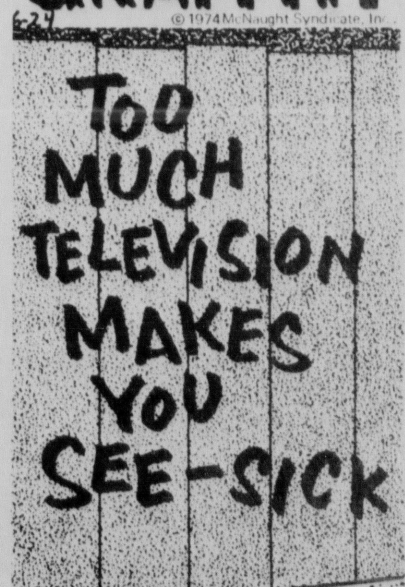

"The supplemental appropriations bill is the main thing," Riffe said when asked if a planned July 9 legislative session will be only a skeleton affair or if all the members will return that day.

Another meeting today—that of the State Controlling Board—is expected to resolve at least two items sidetracked by the legislature along with the spending bill.

Gov. John J. Gilligan is expected to get the Democrat-dominated board to release $1.5 million in emergency funds to make safety repairs at the state fairgrounds, and $110,000 for a consumer protection office to aid tornado victims in the Xenia area. The conference committee meets at 10 a.m., the board at 2:30 p.m.

Majority Republicans in the Senate hiked the bill from $43.5 million proposed by Gilligan—keyed to anticipated lottery proceeds—to $81.8 million. They claim the state will have enough of a budget surplus to cover their spending proposals.

1974 Shapes Up Worst Year Ever For Tornadoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the standpoint of severity, 1974 is shaping up as possibly the worst tornado year in American history.

U.S. government weathermen blame the numerous twisters on especially capricious antics of one of the two high-altitude "jet streams" that help control America's weather.

In response to queries from The Associated Press, the forecasters said:

The Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement in the Golan Heights neared completion today, leaving only the ruins of the town of Quneitra to be given up.

Israeli troops on the Golan Heights handed a one-mile-wide strip of captured Syrian territory over to United Nations forces and retreated to positions west of the 1967 cease-fire line.

The strip was the last part of the 300-square-mile Syrian bulge captured during last October's Arab-Israeli war. The Israeli withdrawal was the third phase in the disengagement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The disengagement is to be completed by Wednesday with the Israeli evacuation of Quneitra, the war-ravaged Golan Heights capital captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

Israel's semi-official state radio reported the withdrawal from southern Lebanon of Syrian soldiers who acted as spotters for artillery batteries that attacked Israeli positions on Mt. Hermon during and after the October war. Israel had charged that the Syrian spotters disguised themselves as Palestinian guerrillas.

In Jerusalem, Premier Yitzhak Rabin said Israel's only chance for survival is to strengthen its defenses while searching for peace. He told a group of Zionist leaders that Israel would continue to attack Arab guerrillas in Lebanon "in every place and at every time it deems necessary."

Yosef Tekoah, Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, said that if the U.N. Security Council meets to discuss Israel's air attacks last week on Palestinian strongholds in Lebanon, he would call for sanctions against countries that allow terrorists to operate from their territory.

The U.S. Navy announced that a Navy landing craft, the 522-foot LST Barnstable County, had moved halfway down the Suez Canal and anchored off Ismailia to serve as a base for American units helping to clear the waterway of wrecks and explosives. The Barnstable County was the first American ship in the canal since the 1967 war closed it.

Conference Committee Eyes Appropriations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An embattled supplemental appropriations bill that failed to make it through the legislature earlier this month comes before an interim conference committee of the Senate and House today.

The six-member panel is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats whose deliberations ground to a halt when the legislature adjourned June 12.

House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, one of the House conferees, indicated the legislature could be finished for the year unless the committee is able to reach a compromise.

"The supplemental appropriations bill is the main thing," Riffe said when asked if a planned July 9 legislative session will be only a skeleton affair or if all the members will return that day.

Another meeting today—that of the State Controlling Board—is expected to resolve at least two items sidetracked by the legislature along with the spending bill.

Gov. John J. Gilligan is expected to get the Democrat-dominated board to release $15 million in emergency funds to make safety repairs at the state fairgrounds, and $110,000 for a consumer protection office to aid tornado victims in the Xenia area.

The conference committee meets at 10 a.m., the board at 2:30 p.m.

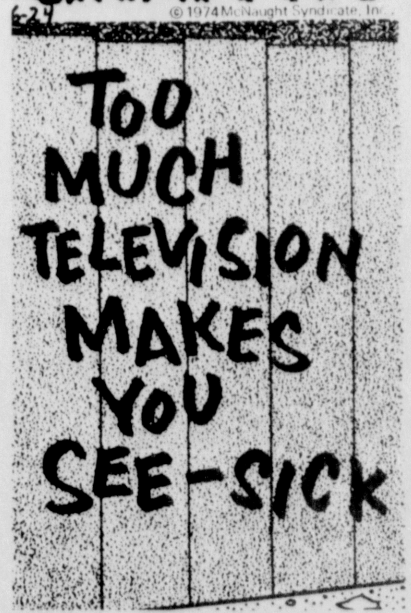

Majority Republicans in the Senate hiked the bill from $43.5 million proposed by Gilligan—keyed to anticipated lottery proceeds—to $81.8 million. They claim the state will have enough of a budget surplus to cover their spending proposals.

of state aid as a result of declining enrollments, and an expansion of the homestead property tax exemption for elderly homeowners starting in 1975.

Gilligan proposed several items that were eliminated by Republicans. They included state aid for emergency medical services in a half dozen major cities, state takeover of two rundown parks in the City of Cleveland, and funds to bring payments for inmate labor at state institutions up to "prevailing wage" levels, among others.

Besides Riffe, the other House conferees are Finance Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, and Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton. Committee members from the Senate are Finance Chairman Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington; Howard C. Book, R-1 Toledo, and Oliver Ocacek, D-27 Akron.

Groups To Discuss County Tornado Warning System

A meeting has been tentatively scheduled Tuesday, July 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Pickaway County 4-H and Grange Building to discuss a county-wide Tornado Warning System.

Called by Pickaway County Commissioners and the Pickaway County Disaster Services organization, the meeting is expected to attract representatives from the county's municipalities, townships, industries, schools, and other interested parties.

Commissioners endorsed the proposal Monday morning as a "necessity for the county." Plans for the system have been approved by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency,

Region 4, Federal Center, Battle Creek, Mich.

The tentative plan, presented to commissioners by Paul Dean, director of the local disaster agency, includes warning sirens in metropolitan areas of the county and tone monitors in all schools.

The set-up as described by Dean is roughly estimated at $27,833 which includes installation fees.

However, city and county schools have indicated a desire to fund the tone monitors, estimated at $170 per unit.

The meeting will be held to determine interest in the project from all groups in the county and local funding available for participation.

The local disaster agency would like to, as a minimum, have sirens installed in all the county's municipalities.

At the urging of Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Commissioner Wayne Hines, all township governments will be invited to participate.

The plan, approved by the government for inclusion as a Federal Revenue Sharing project, calls for incorporation of the tone encoder presently used by the Sheriff's Department if it has dual tone capabilities.

A separate encoder will have to be employed if the system can not be converted.

The final plan will be submitted for 1975 federal monies, hopefully by Aug. 1. Deadline for 1974 approval is June 28.

Attending the preliminary meeting were city fire chief Bernard Wolfe, Sheriff Radcliff, and representatives of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Candidates File Expense Accounts

The Pickaway County Board of Elections reported the campaign expense accounts filed by candidates in the May Primary Election this year.

Candidates on the county level were permitted to spend $725 on their campaigns.

Margaret Remy, Democrat candidate for county auditor reported receipts of $52.53 toward her campaign and expenses of $242.88. Republican candidate for auditor Ned H. Dresbach reported expenses of $710.36.

For county commissioner Republican candidate Wayne Hines reported expenses of $667.16 and Democratic candidate Donald E. Strous expenses of $222.29.

June Ankrom, 415 N. Pickaway St., chairman of the Margaret Remy for Auditor committee reported receipts of $25 and expenditures of $20.40. Patricia Strous, chairman of the Strous for Commissioner Committee reported receipts of $210, all of which will be spent for the November general election.

The Pickaway County Republican Executive Committee reported election expenses of $32.50 according to a report filed by Lucille Dumm, secretary treasurer. The Pickaway County Democrat Executive Committee also reported expenses of $32.50 according to the report filed by Robert K. Hinton, treasurer.

The Pickaway County Democratic Women's Club received $1,801.50 for campaign expenses and spent $531.95.

The Westfall Planning Commission for the school's bond levy received $249.48 in contributions and spent it all. Candidates for central committee were required to file expense accounts only if they were opposed in the May primary. They were:

Police Investigate Thefts, Vandalism

City police are investigating several vandalism and larceny reports received during the weekend.

James Brown, 515 Ridgewood Drive, reported that vandals ripped the mailbox in front of his house from its support and bent the post. The vandalism occurred Friday or Saturday.

Thieves took fishing gear from a car owned by Robert Fyffe, Route 2, that was parked in front of Frank's Bar, W. Main St., Friday night.

Stolen items include a Zebco fishing reel and deep sea rod valued at $60, two other fishing rods of undetermined value, and a tackle box and tackle valued at $30.

Thurman Ramey, 166 Logan St., told police that thieves entered a storage shed at the rear of his property and took a 1/4-inch Black and Decker drill valued at $20 and a box of Christmas decorations valued at $75.

Thieves broke into the 420 Abernathy Ave. home of Jarell Clinton Saturday night. Nothing was reported missing but the house was ransacked. It was the fourth time the house has been illegally entered.

Damage to a car and camper was reported by Gerald W. Hall, 213 W. Corwin St., early Sunday morning.

According to the report, Hall was driving east on W. Main St. at the N.W. Railroad crossing when the car fell into a hole 10-inches deep and 6-feet wide.

Rear bumper of the vehicle was damaged and glass was broken from the camper he was towing.

Railroad personnel were on the scene within the hour to fill in the hole, apparently caused by torrential rains.

Police arrested two boys and charged them with destruction of property after a witness saw them kick in a storm door in the 137 Watt St. apartments of J. Boyd Stout.

The boys were released to their parents pending a juvenile court hearing.

Lawn Mower Taken In Theft

Charles R. Hix, Orient, reported to Pickaway County Sheriff's department thieves took a lawn mower from his front yard sometime between June 19 and 20.

The mower was valued at $200.

Warner Timmons, Route 4, reported a radiator, valued at $110, was taken from a truck parked in a barn.

According to Deputy Kuhn, a wrench was used to remove the radiator.

Groups To Discuss County Tornado Warning System

A meeting has been tentatively scheduled Tuesday, July 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Pickaway County 4-H and Grange Building to discuss a county-wide Tornado Warning System.

Called by Pickaway County Commissioners and the Pickaway County Disaster Services organization, the meeting is expected to attract representatives from the county's municipalities, townships, industries, schools, and other interested parties.

Commissioners endorsed the proposal Monday morning as a "necessity for the county." Plans for the system have been approved by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency,

Region 4, Federal Center, Battle Creek, Mich.

The tentative plan, presented to commissioners by Paul Dean, director of the local disaster agency, includes warning sirens in metropolitan areas of the county and tone monitors in all schools.

The set-up as described by Dean is roughly estimated at $27,833 which includes installation fees.

However, city and county schools have indicated a desire to fund the tone monitors, estimated at $170 per unit.

The meeting will be held to determine interest in the project from all groups in the county and local funding available for participation.

The local disaster agency would like to, as a minimum, have sirens installed in all the county's municipalities.

At the urging of Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Commissioner Wayne Hines, all township governments will be invited to participate.

The plan, approved by the government for inclusion as a Federal Revenue Sharing project, calls for incorporation of the tone encoder presently used by the Sheriff's Department if it has dual tone capabilities.

A separate encoder will have to be employed if the system can not be converted.

The final plan will be submitted for 1975 federal monies, hopefully by Aug. 1. Deadline for 1974 approval is June 28.

Attending the preliminary meeting were city fire chief Bernard Wolfe, Sheriff Radcliff, and representatives of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Police Investigate Thefts, Vandalism

City police are investigating several vandalism and larceny reports received during the weekend.

James Brown, 515 Ridgewood Drive, reported that vandals ripped the mailbox in front of his house from its support and bent the post. The vandalism occurred Friday or Saturday.

Thieves took fishing gear from a car owned by Robert Fyffe, Route 2, that was parked in front of Frank's Bar, W. Main St., Friday night.

Stolen items include a Zebco fishing reel and deep sea rod valued at $60, two other fishing rods of undetermined value, and a tackle box and tackle valued at $30.

Thurman Ramey, 166 Logan St., told police that thieves entered a storage shed at the rear of his property and took a 1/4-inch Black and Decker drill valued at $20 and a box of Christmas decorations valued at $75.

Thieves broke into the 420 Abernathy Ave. home of Jarell Clinton Saturday night. Nothing was reported missing but the house was ransacked. It was the fourth time the house has been illegally entered.

Damage to a car and camper was reported by Gerald W. Hall, 213 W. Corwin St., early Sunday morning.

According to the report, Hall was driving east on W. Main St. at the N.W. Railroad crossing when the car fell into a hole 10-inches deep and 6-feet wide.

Rear bumper of the vehicle was damaged and glass was broken from the camper he was towing.

Railroad personnel were on the scene within the hour to fill in the hole, apparently caused by torrential rains.

Police arrested two boys and charged them with destruction of property after a witness saw them kick in a storm door in the 137 Watt St. apartments of J. Boyd Stout.

The boys were released to their parents pending a juvenile court hearing.

Lawn Mower Taken In Theft

Charles R. Hix, Orient, reported to Pickaway County Sheriff's department thieves took a lawn mower from his front yard sometime between June 19 and 20.

The mower was valued at $200. Deputy J. Phillip Brown investigated the theft.

Warner Timmons, Route 4, reported a radiator, valued at $110, was taken from a truck parked in a barn.

According to Deputy Kuhn, a wrench was used to remove the radiator.

Articles Filed

Articles of incorporation were filed June 10, with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, for Thomas Wardell Farm Drainage, Inc., Teresa Wardell agent, Route 1, Ashville.

The incorporation was filed by James K. Hill, 209 E. Main St., Circleville.

State Helps Mentally Retarded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — This year's legislature did something for a generally unheralded minority group— Ohio's mentally retarded.

It gave them a so-called "Bill of Rights," but failed to go the whole distance and extend the same benefits to the mentally ill.

"I'm extremely disappointed," said Dr. Kenneth Gaver, director of the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

He said that the companion measure which would have extended benefits to the mentally ill had been stalled in the House Judiciary Committee since April 18, 1973, although efforts were made to get it moving in the last days of the recent session.

"It's too bad they waited until so late," said Dr. Gaver. "I'd like to have seen it pass."

Dr. Gaver is leaving Sept. 1 to take over a similar post in Texas.

The mental health administrator, widely applauded especially by Gov. John J. Gilligan for bringing "humane and decent treatment" into Ohio's mental health program, praised the bill that did pass.

"It represents a real milestone in the state's meeting its responsibilities to its handicapped citizens, especially that which is involved in seeing that they are not deprived of their liberty," he said.

He also said the measure assures appropriate protections against such things as exploitation in work programs, "assures their human rights, lets them have friends and gives them their privacy."

Dr. Gaver said he believes the legislation also "meets all the issues which have been brought before the courts in recent years."

These include guarantees of due process under the law and requiring payment of wages at the prevailing rate if patients volunteer to work.

The bill prohibits discrimination against former patients and includes language guaranteeing their rights to private or public employment. It states that any person detained by the state retains the rights of all other persons other than those specifically denied him by law.

It sets up a Legal Rights Service, a new agency which is to be independent. The legal rights administrator would be named by the Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court and could appoint staff, promulgate rules and recommend his own budget to the General Assembly.

Any person alleged to be mentally retarded by a parent, guardian or spouse would be entitled to constitutional due process at full probate court hearings. If it turned out that he was not required to be placed in an institution all records would be destroyed.

Free legal counsel would be available if needed.

The bill requires periodic review of a patient's status, including his designated "habilitation program." The patient could not be required to work at jobs for institutional upkeep unless he volunteered and was paid the same wages as outsiders doing the same type work.

No patient could be retained for a period longer than five years involuntarily unless it was shown that his retardation "is such that he is unable to provide for his most basic needs, and that provision of such needs is not otherwise available."

Conserving Water

Water resource preservation and protection takes two forms: protection against natural and unnatural dislocations. Natural threats include droughts, floods, changing climatic conditions and the like.

Man is the most visible unnatural threat, and in some ways more dangerous than natural forces. Nor is it only his growing thirst for fresh water which causes the problems.

Few continents have undergone water shortages as devastating as that which afflicts the spreading sub-

Sahara region of Africa. For reasons not yet understood, the monsoon season has been by-passing the region so effectively that some areas have not had appreciable rainfall in six years.

While nature was playing its deadly tricks, man was contributing a few of his own. The Sahara is undermined by vast underground lakes, presenting it would seem an obvious answer to water needs. Thousands of wells were dug in a project which some believed one day might turn the desert into a fertile garden.

As irrigation projects began growing grasses and other vegetation where only sand existed before, nomads by the thousands brought in their flocks and herds. It wasn't long until the land had been overgrazed, cattle and sheep were dying and the beginning of a new drought was on.

If it is true industrial nations must learn to use the same water over and over again before it is permitted to flow into the sea, underdeveloped countries have yet to learn how to capture and use the virgin supplies at their disposal.

A Depressing Note

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

By an unhappy coincidence the Tel Aviv stock market dropped heavily the day President Nixon landed in Israel. Well, can't win 'em all.

President Hafez el-Assad of Syria must have been secretly disappointed that Nixon didn't give that peace-loving country the promise of a nuclear reactor and atomic fuel. It would have made a nice trade with Syria supplying us with ten million tons of dates.

The hardest working American official over the past few months has been Henry Kissinger. Worry, worry, night and day little or no sleep, gulped food, whatnot. So Kissinger came down with two ulcers — Mrs. Kissinger, that is.

Some of the more memorable bits of prose written on the trip to the Middle East never saw the light of publication, except in heavily rewritten form. I refer to the compositions of the various pools of newsmen assigned to represent the whole horde at this or that event and then write a special report on which the rest fed.

"The Nixons arrived at 8:10 p.m. in the President's car. They had been preceded by seven jeeps, with two light machine guns mounted on each, troop carriers (carrying troops) and about a dozen motorcycles. The jeeps were manned by Bedouin troops wearing red-checked kaffiyehs.

"Mrs. Nixon wore a (plain old Republican) periwinkle blue pleated gown with low neckline. She wore a two-strand pearl choker with a diamond clasp. The Queen wore a champagne colored gown with a white and coral beaded bodice. This was topped with an orange chiffon scarf and diamond earrings. The King and the President were in black tie.

For an example, a few gems plucked by the "pool" report of the state dinner at Basman Palace, Amman, Jordan:

"The dinner for statistics freaks on this trip was prepared by a chef, four cooks, a kitchen boy and 24 waiters, all employees of the Intercontinental Hotel in Amman. At one point the kitchen boy repaired to the rose bushes outside with his prayer rug and began praying.

"An orchestra was seated on a balcony outside and such songs as 'Wonderful Guy' and 'Some Enchanted Evening' were played.

"During the President's tributes the King's face was set in a dimpled grin... the Queen seemed rather surprised when the photographers and poolers entered and watched them for a few minutes while the King was speaking. The room was rather hot and a number of the guests fanned themselves with their menus. The toasts were drunk in water or fruit juice. It being a Moslem household, no alcohol was served."

It was different on "The Spirit of '76," or Air Force One. I was a member of the pool that always rides the President's superdooper jet. (More anon about that experience.) Suffice it to say that as soon as the four of us were seated in the rear of the plane, a nice member of the crew asked us what we'd have to drink. It was hardly a bacchanal.

This was the Israeli-Jordan leg of the trip. Just in time to have a shot, take a few notes as Ron Ziegler gave us a tour of the magnificent vehicle, and write the shortest pool report of the whole trip. But in that time we saw everybody on the plane — with only two exceptions, the Nixons.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the past few weeks there has developed very little evidence to support the consensus forecast of a sharp drop in price increases and interest rates by the end of the year.

And, since this is a repeat of the 1973 scenario, when prices seemed to defy the efforts and best intentions of those who claimed to understand what was going on, there exists today a feeling of abandonment to fate.

The federal government has largely withdrawn from direct intervention in the marketplace as a whole, although it continues sporadically its attempts to cover over the big problems, such as the threatened bankruptcy of catlemen.

The forecasts come with the old frequency but are quickly assaulted by facts. Private and government forecasters alike are beginning to find themselves out on a limb, their pleas of "wait 'til next month" sounding too shrill to be believed.

Last week the prime rate rose, against the forecasts, of course. It was foreordained by a sharp rise in business borrowing at the big New York banks, again in defiance of the forecasts.

The latest consumer price index, for May, also showed an increase in the rate of increase, to an annual rate of 13.2 per cent. It meant that consumer prices in May were 10.7 per cent over a year ago.

What does that mean in terms of wages? For some, of course, it means automatic increases because their incomes are tied to the cost of living, rising via escalator clauses to the same degree.

For millions of others, however, it means a further decrease in the purchasing power of the dollar they take home. They can buy less and less with that dollar unless they get pay raises. And so, trouble brews on that front.

In fact, the forecasts that seem most likely to be realized are those now emanating from every direction that labor will become increasingly aggressive, after a mysterious hiatus during the past year.

Medical bills are growing faster now than earlier this year. Clothing and used car prices are accelerating. Mortgage rates are rising, although the consequences are academic, since the housing market has all but expired.

What is bothering some economists and government officials now is a matter that should have been appreciated much earlier: Whether prices can be controlled at all for many months more.

It is one thing to control domestic prices through proper fiscal and monetary measures. It is an entirely different matter when the prices to be controlled are set abroad.

Both energy and food are world markets, with world demand setting the price. Since the United States imports both — as well as exports both — it cannot escape the inflationary impact.

Mayors Take Up Inflation

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Inflation and its squeeze on municipal budgets is the major problem facing urban chief executives gathering today for the 42nd annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Some mayors surveyed in advance of Saturday's opening session said federal revenue sharing and the "New Federalism" have only helped offset inflation and have failed to relieve American cities of their perennial financial woes.

The sharpest criticism came from Boston's Kevin White who said, "Inflation ate up revenue sharing before it could even be spent... Its implementation has been a hoax and a hollow shell game for the cities of America."

White, a Democrat, added, "We have been forced to rob Peter to pay Paul and we end up nearly starving both."

Another Democrat, Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles differed: "General revenue sharing has been a fiscal lifesaver for us as we have gotten almost $40 million a year," Bradley said. "Without it we would be in dire financial straits."

About 350 mayors were expected to attend the sessions, which begin Saturday and run through Wednesday when the mayors adopt resolutions and choose a successor to Norfolk's Roy B. Martin Jr. as conference president.

An ordinance to authorize work on a new comprehensive plan for Circleville was tabled by city council in an adjourned session. The solons spent considerable time discussing pros and cons of a master plan and finally decided to hold the approving ordinance for further study and discussion following a heated exchange of words.

Members of the Pickaway County and Circleville Civil Defense Communications Group scheduled a Field Day Exercise at the Sam Dearth Farm. Ham operators in the United States and Canada took part in the program.

Carol Balthaser, Route 2, Ashville, was elected to the office of city council during sessions of Buckeye Girls State held on the Capital University campus.

Pickaway Grain Co. received its first load of the season's wheat crop from Bruce Stevenson. Test weight of the wheat was 59.4, with a moisture content of 14.82 per cent.

A decision by Judge William Ammer, sitting by assignment at Hillsboro, was appealed to the Fourth District Court of Appeals by the Highland County Board of Education. Ammer, in the case of six Lynchburg-Clay taxpayers against the school board, ruled the board abused its discretion in merging Lynchburg-Clay with High Ridge and Brushcreek.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

We live in an area where the climate is particularly damp and our 5-year-old son shows signs of asthma.

We are willing to move to any part of the country if it will help him. Are there any places where an asthmatic can find relief?

Mrs. E.N.N., Mo.

Dear Mrs. N.:

Many families have impulsively uprooted themselves and moved into a new geographic area for this reason. Undoubtedly, a dry climate without wide swings of temperature is considered beneficial. But unfortunately, this is not always the only answer to the complex problem of asthma.

Families who dislocate themselves from their business and social lives may be overwhelmed with disappointment when they find there is no change in the condition of the asthmatic.

It is much wiser to test out new areas for a reasonable length of time before taking such a decisive step.

There are many new and exciting drugs on the horizon which are beneficial to the asthmatic. Some are used as a preventative. Others are used to stop an attack, or modify it.

We're Broke

By JIM BISHOP

The oldest dodge in selling stocks is to say, "There is no way you can lose money on these shares unless the whole United States goes bankrupt." Quietly and unobtrusively, the other week it did.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. William E. Simon, leaked the news that it was just a technicality. Being busted is no technicality to me. I once owed $3,100 and I banged my head against the wall so hard I broke my shoelaces.

The difference between me and the U.S. is that I had to scrape, scrounge and sweat to pay it back. What happened to the government is that it reached and passed its legal debt ceiling of 475 billions of dollars, plus 700 million on June first.

The amount that Uncle Sam can go into hock is set by Congress. The President proposed that the Congress raise the amount we can owe by $20 billion, up to a total of $495 billion. The Representatives and Senators, who expect to get paychecks this month, failed to act in time.

It is safe to predict that they will sprint the bill through now. Still, I worry about that debt. It costs $800 million a day to run this country. This comes to about $555,555 a minute all day and all night.

The first Roosevelt administration put us in hock, proclaiming, "We will spend and spend, and elect and elect." All Republican governments—Eisenhower and Nixon—campaign on the premise that we needed less centralized government in Washington and more government in the states.

What we got was more expensive government everywhere—in Washington, the state capital, the counties, the cities and towns. The more taxes we pay, the more money we owe.

Nixon cut the dollar loose from gold because we didn't have enough gold to back our printed money. To simplify something which appears to be complicated—but isn't—in days gone by every paper dollar was backed by a dollar's worth of government gold and, theoretically, anyone could redeem his dollars for precious metal.

Today we have $11 billion in gold and we owe $475 billion. In addition, European governments are holding $125 billion in dollars spent by our servicemen and tourists. They may, at their pleasure, bale it and send it to Washington for the gold we haven't got.

That isn't all. The Arab and South American oil nations will close this fiscal year with a surplus of $4 billion in American money. What are they going to do with our paper? Where can

Not until you have exhausted all the medical and psychological reasons for your son's asthma should you consider such an upheaval in your lives.

I have heard that some young high school students go on kicks from cough medicine. What will they do next?

Mrs. B.D., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. D.:

Cough medicines such as terpen hydrate with codeine are being sold to these youngsters by unscrupulous dealers who equate morality with the dollar.

Four ounces of this medicine contain four grains of codeine in a solution that consists of 42 per cent alcohol (84 proof).

Ethical pharmacists have been cooperating with Public Health officials to control the consumption of these medicines and prevent their abuse.

Legislation is imperative to restrict the sale of such habitforming chemicals, drugs and alcohol.

The vulnerable youngster is caught in the trap of those who are constantly coming up with a "what next?" danger.

they spend it? They may present it at any time and demand gold, goods or services.

The United States—governmentally and privately—has been living on the time-payment plan for six decades. American citizens owe corporations $800 billion. We are drowning in high living and printing press money. I'm no doomsday prophet. I believe this country is so naturally rich in marketable merchandise underground, on the ground and above the ground that I think it can survive its outrageous folly.

Still, I don't think we should press our luck. The Nixon government is still pricing gold at $42 an ounce, when it is selling on the Swiss market at $155 an ounce. Inflation is running at almost 19 per cent a year, which means that, if you count a dollar as worth a hundred cents now—which is laughable, in less than six years it will be worth a stick of gum at the present rate of inflation.

Inflation doesn't work that way. Ask the Germans. It runs downhill like lava from a live volcano, slowly at first, then with ever-increasing speed, burning everything in its path. If, in 1969, America had wage and price controls, enforced by heavy penalties, inflation would have been slowed to a walk.

We are in it too deep now for controls. Wall Street, which has been in a glacial decline for almost three years, has good stocks priced below their actual worth and can't find buyers. Some investors, trying to salvage the value of their dollars, have invested in gold mines in the U.S. and in South Africa.

Others have dribbled their dollars to Switzerland. A few buy diamonds, rubies and emeralds on the assumption that precious gems will not depreciate in value.

Somewhere, at this moment, a baby is being born. With the first spunk, the long painful breath and thin cry, he owes $2,300 of our national debt. He's in hock up to his ears before he soils his first diaper.

It's an ugly picture. I am not a financial wizard and have no pretensions in that field, but I understand simple arithmetic. It takes a lot of simple-minded people to impoverish the richest country in the history of the world...

Beavers leave their home pond at the age of 2, some wandering more than 30 miles before settling down, National Geographic says. One marked animal in North Dakota went 148 miles before finding a suitable homesite.

"Look at the shape of who's complaining about the shape the world is in."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

We live in an area where the climate is particularly damp and our 5-year-old son shows signs of asthma.

We are willing to move to any part of the country if it will help him. Are there any places where an asthmatic can find relief?

Mrs. E.N.N., Mo.

Dear Mrs. N.: Many families have impulsively uprooted themselves and moved into a new geographic area for this reason.

Undoubtedly, a dry climate without wide swings of temperature is considered beneficial. But unfortunately, this is not always the only answer to the complex problem of asthma.

Families who dislocate themselves from their business and social lives may be overwhelmed with disappointment when they find there is no change in the condition of the asthmatic.

It is much wiser to test out new areas for a reasonable length of time before taking such a decisive step.

There are many new and exciting drugs on the horizon which are beneficial to the asthmatic. Some are used as a preventative. Others are used to stop an attack, or modify it.

We're Broke

By JIM BISHOP

The oldest dodge in selling stocks is to say, "There is no way you can lose money on these shares unless the whole United States goes bankrupt."

Quietly and unobtrusively, the other week it did. The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. William E. Simon, leaked the news that it was just a technicality. Being busted is no technicality to me. I once owed $3,100 and I banged my head against the wall so hard I broke my shoelaces.

The difference between me and the U.S. is that I had to scrape, scrounge and sweat to pay it back. What happened to the government is that it reached and passed its legal debt ceiling of 475 billions of dollars, plus 700 million on June first.

The amount that Uncle Sam can go into hock is set by Congress. The President proposed that the Congress raise the amount we can owe by $20 billion, up to a total of $495 billion. The Representatives and Senators, who expect to get paychecks this month, failed to act in time.

It is safe to predict that they will sprint the bill through now. Still, I worry about that debt. It costs $800 million a day to run this country. This comes to about $555,555 a minute all day and all night.

The first Roosevelt administration put us in hock, proclaiming, "We will spend and spend, and elect and elect." All Republican governments—Eisenhower and Nixon—campaign on the premise that we needed less centralized government in Washington and more government in the states.

What we got was more expensive government everywhere—in Washington, the state capital, the counties, the cities and towns. The more taxes we pay, the more money we owe.

Nixon cut the dollar loose from gold because we didn't have enough gold to back our printed money. To simplify something which appears to be complicated—but isn't—in days gone by every paper dollar was backed by a dollar's worth of government gold and, theoretically, anyone could redeem his dollars for precious metal.

Today we have $11 billion in gold and we owe $475 billion. In addition, European governments are holding $125 billion in dollars spent by our servicemen and tourists. They may, at their pleasure, bale it and send it to Washington for the gold we haven't got.

That isn't all. The Arab and South American oil nations will close this fiscal year with a surplus of $4 billion in American money. What are they going to do with our paper? Where can

Not until you have exhausted all the medical and psychological reasons for your son's asthma should you consider such an upheaval in your lives.

I have heard that some young high school students go on kicks from cough medicine. What will they do next?

Mrs. B.D., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. D.: Cough medicines such as terpen hydrate with codeine are being sold to these youngsters by unscrupulous dealers who equate morality with the dollar.

Four ounces of this medicine contain four grains of codeine in a solution that consists of 42 per cent alcohol (84 proof).

Ethical pharmacists have been cooperating with Public Health officials to control the consumption of these medicines and prevent their abuse.

Legislation is imperative to restrict the sale of such habitforming chemicals, drugs and alcohol.

The vulnerable youngster is caught in the trap of those who are constantly coming up with a "what next?" danger.

They may present it at any time and demand gold, goods or services.

The United States—governmentally and privately—has been living on the time-payment plan for six decades. American citizens owe corporations $800 billion. We are drowning in high living and printing press money. I'm no doomsday prophet. I believe this country is so naturally rich in marketable merchandise underdogged, on the ground and above the ground that I think it can survive its outrageous folly.

Still, I don't think we should press our luck. The Nixon government is still pricing gold at $42 an ounce, when it is selling on the Swiss market at $155 an ounce. Inflation is running at almost 19 per cent a year, which means that, if you count a dollar as worth a hundred cents now—which is laughable, in less than six years it will be worth a stick of gum at the present rate of inflation.

Inflation doesn't work that way. Ask the Germans. It runs downhill like lava from a live volcano, slowly at first, then with ever-increasing speed, burning everything in its path. If, in 1969, America had wage and price controls, enforced by heavy penalties, inflation would have been slowed to a walk.

We are in it too deep now for controls. Wall Street, which has been in a glacial decline for almost three years, has good stocks priced below their actual worth and can't find buyers. Some investors, trying to salvage the value of their dollars, have invested in gold mines in the U.S. and in South Africa.

Others have dribbled their dollars to Switzerland. A few buy diamonds, rubies and emeralds on the assumption that precious gems will not depreciate in value.

Somewhere, at this moment, a baby is being born. With the first spank, the long painful breath and thin cry, he owes $2,300 of our national debt. He's in hock up to his ears before he soils his first diaper.

It's an ugly picture. I am not a financial wizard and have no pretensions in that field, but I understand simple arithmetic. It takes a lot of simple-minded people to impoverish the richest country in the history of the world...

Beavers leave their home pond at the age of 2, some wandering more than 30 miles before settling down, National Geographic says. One marked animal in North Dakota went 148 miles before finding a suitable homesite.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Could Be More Than Talk

DEAR ABBY: Harvey is 76, and I am a few years younger. We've been married for two years, both having lost our mates in death.

My problem is his interest in other women. He says he just likes to "talk." We went to the Bahamas for a holiday and he took up with an old maid he met in the hotel lobby. She was with a tour, but found Harvey so fascinating she stayed behind and let the group go on without her. (Now don't tell me all he gave her was conversation!)

When Harvey was in the hospital for a few days for tests he called up an old girl friend and she came to visit him. Even with me in the room he held her hand, and they talked over old times. The head nurse told him he couldn't have any more visitors after that because it ran up his blood pressure. You can imagine how humiliated I was.

Divorce is not the answer. If it weren't for this thing he has about other women he'd be a good man.

I'm considering inviting two or three women over every day, and let him get all talked out. Should I, or not?

HURT
DEAR HURT: I wouldn't. Harvey might have more conversation in him than you think.

DEAR ABBY: How does a parent deal with this new breed of woman? I need advice on this matter. Somehow I find it hard to accept this business of living together without marrying.

Am I wrong to deny them sleeping quarters together in my house? My daughter is well educated, with a master's degree from a fine eastern university. She is only dumb where men are concerned.

NO NAMES, PLEASE
DEAR NO: What your adult offspring do away from home is their business. What they do in your home is YOUR business. If you don't feel right about their sharing sleeping quarters in your home, tell them so. And if they don't like it, they can stay in a motel.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a neighbor who comes over every day as soon as I come home from work at 3:45 p.m.? Her husband travels, so she stays for hours. I have no time for myself and absolutely no privacy. Sometimes I've had a hard day at the office and would like to lie down for an hour before I start preparing dinner, but I can't because she's here.

She brings her two preschool children along, which makes matters worse because she doesn't discipline them, and they run wild.

Otherwise she is a good neighbor and does a lot of little favors for me. I haven't wanted to say anything that might hurt her feelings, yet these poorly timed visits are getting to me. Any Suggestions?

WEARY
DEAR WEARY: Yes. Tell her you sometimes like to lie down after work so please telephone before coming over. I don't know what "little favors" she does for you, but you're paying a big price for them. Is it worth your privacy? Think about it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DESPERATE OLD MAID": At 29 you are far from an "old maid," so drop that label. And don't act so desperate. Think of yourself as a whole individual, not a half looking for another half.

Scientific Study Of Middle Age Shows Re-Examinations

CHICAGO (AP) — Middle age is a time when a lot of people start thinking about doing something for themselves, and that's not all bad, says a psychiatrist.

During middle age, people evaluate their achievements, think about the time they have left and what they want to accomplish for themselves, he said. This selfish response is not unhealthy, "depending on what you do," according to the psychiatrist, Dr. Francois Alouf.

Alouf, director of psychiatric education at Northwestern University medical school, presented his observations to newsmen at a preview screening of a Public Broadcasting Service program on "Male Menopause: The Pause that Perplexes."

Narrated by actor Norman Windom, the program touches on the problems created by a youth-oriented culture such as reaching a job plateau, getting gray and flabby, not being able to perform sexually and other middle-age anxieties.

Some men attempt to adapt to middle age by denying that they're getting older, Alouf said. These men continue to try to compete with younger men and seek to cover up their physical changes, he added.

"Middle age is mostly a state of mind," the psychiatrist observed. The changes vary from individual to individual and some men may even increase their sexual activity during middle age, he said.

Alouf said the PBS program incorporates "just about everything we know about the middle years," and noted that only in the past few years have scientific studies of this age span been conducted.

He said the program is likely to produce anxiety in persons approaching middle age or those who already are there. He was critical because it does not emphasize the positive aspects of this period and what can be done to cope.

The program defines the middle years as 38 to 55; Alouf said his definition was from 45 to 65.

The hour-long program, produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television in Washington, D.C., will be aired on various dates around the country, starting Monday.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the first time, Ohio will pay state employees who use their motorcycles for state business. They'll get six cents a mile.

Find Shock Probation Does Work

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Six per cent fewer parolees return to prison for violation of shock probation in Ohio than for violation of probation after longer jail terms, an Ohio State University study reveals.

The authors of the study, Associate Professor Harry E. Allen and researcher Nancy J. Beran, conclude tentatively that shock probation generally has been successful here and should be continued.

About one in four persons sentenced to prison in the state is granted shock probation today, nearly nine years after Ohio adopted the experiment as an option for judges, Allen and Beran say.

The theory is that convicted felons who are not hardened criminals may benefit more from short exposure to prison than from long terms.

The study notes that shock parolees are likely to be persons with family or community ties who also have good prospects for employment.

The university is seeking additional state funds to make a detailed study of shock probation. He said the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development put up $18,000 for the preliminary one.

The study examined the cases of 486 persons granted shock probation in 1966 and 1970.

State School Payments Made

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's office distributed a total of $171,512.82 to the city and county school districts of Pickaway County from the June state school subsidy payments.

Of this amount Circleville received $59,730.93; Logan Elm, $35,132.02; Teays Valley, $43,478.11; Westfall, $33,171.76. A payment of $6,126.41 was made directly to the county board making a total payment to the central office $13,300.62 with payments for each of the local districts.

Miss Deborah Ann Dick
Bride Of William Harvey

MRS. WILLIAM MARTIN HARVEY

The marriage of Miss Deborah Ann Dick and Mr. William Martin Harvey, both of Bradenton, Fla., took place 2:30 p.m. June 22nd, at Christ United Methodist Church in Bradenton.

The Rev. John Bird officiated the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with a large arrangement of pompon mums, daisies and iris in predominately yellow and white. The large arrangement was flanked with two identical small ones.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dick, 341 E. Franklin St., Circleville, Ohio. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James E. Harvey, Darien, Wis.

A program of music preceding the program was presented by Miss Mariam Parkinson, organist, and Miss Barbara Ferguson, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected for her wedding a formal length gown of white angel skin. The bodice featured a wedding ring collar, tucked yoke trimmed with white alencon lace and the full sleeves had deep cuffs trimmed in matching lace. The full skirt was completed by a full flounce edged in lace. Matching lace was applied on the skirt and sleeves. Her matching headpiece was a Juliet cap of layered silk illusion holding her lace edged elbow length veil. The bride carried a bouquet of white daisies and baby's breath.

Martons of honor was Mrs. Susan Lance of Bradenton, Fla. She was attired in a citrus yellow gown of crystalline chiffon. The sleeveless bodice featured a wedding ring neckline and high yoke encircled with matching ruffles and yellow satin waistband. The full skirt ended with a flounce at the bottom and she wore a large yellow picture hat trimmed with yellow satin ribbon and white Venice lace. She carried a white straw basket filled with yellow and white daisies, baby's breath and fern with yellow streamers.

Mrs. Sandy Battle of Bradenton, was bridesmaid. She was dressed identically to the honor attendant and carried a matching basket of flowers. Both attendants wore silver identification bracelets, gifts of the bride.

Jenny Lance of Bradenton was flower girl. The little Miss wore a

President Briefed About Lithuanian

WASHINGTON (AP) — The case of a Lithuanian sailor forced back to his Soviet vessel with the permission of the Coast Guard was among items on which President Nixon was briefed in preparing for his Moscow summit trip.

Simas Kudirka, 45—said to be an American citizen—is in a Soviet labor camp in the Urals serving a 10-year prison term for treason. There has been no contact with him since October. His wife and two children and mother are living in Lithuania.

He jumped from his Soviet ship to the cutter Vigilant Nov. 23, 1970, off Martha's Vineyard, Island, Mass., but the Coast Guard allowed the Russians to take him back. Reaction in Washington was an official "unfortunate" from the State Department, White House orders to prevent it from reoccurring, plus congressional protest.

Since then, Lithuanian groups in the United States have said they can prove Kudirka is an American citizen. Part of their claim is supported by the fact his mother was born in Brooklyn.

Nixon was briefed on the case at Camp David, Md., in preparation for leaving for Moscow Tuesday, Rep. Robert Hanrahan, R-Ill., said Friday. But Hanrahan said there is no assurance Nixon will bring the matter up in his talk with Communist leaders.

Dissident sources from Communist-held countries say they fear Kudirka's well-being because of lack of communication from him.

They doubt he is dead because the Russian underground would have learned about it, but they say there is a good chance he may be ill or in solitary confinement.

The last information received, the sources said, came from a Russian immigrant to Israel who said about eight months ago Kudirka was in good health.

However, since October, registered and certified mail sent to him has been acknowledged only by return receipts bearing the signature of a Soviet prison camp official.

The State Department says it is investigating whether Kudirka is an American citizen. On May 17, the department said his mother, Mrs. Marija Sulskiene, is an American citizen and she was issued a U.S. passport at the American embassy in Moscow. She is in Lithuania waiting for an exit visa to leave for the United States.

Transit Vote Set Minus Planning

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It is less than five months until a billion-dollar mass transit proposal goes to Los Angeles voters, who still have no idea what they'll be asked to approve.

Planners hired by the Southern California Rapid Transit District began drafting a proposal 20 months ago, but their conclusions are only vaguely defined.

They say that buses would serve only as interim modes of transportation in auto-oriented Los Angeles until the county could establish some sort of rail system. But what form that long-range system should take is the mystery.

Exclusive bus-lanes in the city and on the freeways are fine, but limited, the planners said. Los Angeles' ultimate transportation needs are for a stationary rail system.

Voters will be asked to write a blank check for an $8 billion to $10 billion proposal which may range from something like San Francisco's BART network to a transportation idea not yet off some designer's drawing board.

Legislation passed last year provides that the November ballot issue be divided into two separate proposals. If both pass, a one-cent countywide sales tax increase would be implemented.

Half of each cent would provide local funds—which the federal government would supplement with 80 per cent of costs—for transit changes. The other half-cent would be plowed into existing bus systems to continue the county's 25-cent fare pilot program through mid-1978.

Estimates are that the ballot measures would provide about $200 million in annual additional revenues, with the promise of more federal funds.

But the challenge now facing the district is to get the proposal on the ballot. That will require approval by the Southern California Association of Governments, which meets July 11 to act on it.

And the county Board of Supervisors has an Aug. 23 deadline for putting the transit measure before county voters.

But a source says the two groups are at odds, with the association fearing the costly permanence of a fixed rail proposal but apparently not satisfied with a greatly improved and expanded bus system, which the supervisors favor.

The district's proposal has created misunderstanding among city and county agencies, including Mayor Tom Bradley's office.

Bradley favors a 70-mile initial rail system, but the City Council torpedoed that program and told the district to "begin . . . immediately" developing a long-range transit system proposal.

OU-L Offers Workshops

Mrs. Betty Menson, Acting Assistant Director, announced that two summer workshops in home economics, courses never before available at Ohio University Lancaster, will be offered this summer at the local campus.

"Introduction to Child Development" (HECF 160) is a four credit hour course examining fundamental patterns of development and behavior during the prenatal period through adolescence. It will be offered Monday through Thursday from 9:00 until noon, July 22 through August 1.

This course satisfies requirements for certification of kindergarten teachers and would be a beneficial course for elementary education majors.

A second workshop in home economics will be offered from 1:30 until 4:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday, July 22 through August 1. "Readings in Child Development and/or Family Living", a three credit hour course, will have an independent study format examining basic research, theory writings, current controversies and trends relevant to growth and behavior of children and in family living. This workshop is available for both graduate and undergraduate credit.

HPER 270, "Teaching of Physical Education" will be offered the week of July 15 through July 19. The course may be taken for either two or three hours of credit. Class times will be 10:00-12:00 a.m. and 1:00-5:00 p.m. for three hours of credit, and 1:00-5:00 for only two credit hours.

Successful completion of the course will satisfy the necessary requirement in the Elementary Education curriculum.

Further information about the courses, and registration procedures, may be obtained by calling the campus at 654-6711.

Voters will be asked to write a blank check for an $8 billion to $10 billion proposal which may range from something like San Francisco's BART network to a transportation idea not yet off some designer's drawing board.

Legislation passed last year provides that the November ballot issue be divided into two separate proposals. If both pass, a one-cent countywide sales tax increase would be implemented. Half of each cent would provide local funds—which the federal government would supplement with 80 per cent of costs—for transit changes. The other half-cent would be plowed into existing bus systems to continue the county's 25-cent fare pilot program through mid-1978.

Estimates are that the ballot measures would provide about $200 million in annual additional revenues, with the promise of more federal funds.

But the challenge now facing the district is to get the proposal on the ballot. That will require approval by the Southern California Association of Governments, which meets July 11 to act on it.

And the county Board of Supervisors has an Aug. 23 deadline for putting the transit measure before county voters.

But a source says the two groups are at odds, with the association fearing the costly permanence of a fixed rail proposal but apparently not satisfied with a greatly improved and expanded bus system, which the supervisors favor.

The district's proposal has created misunderstanding among city and county agencies, including Mayor Tom Bradley's office.

Bradley favors a 70-mile initial rail system, but the City Council torpedoed that program and told the district to "begin . . . immediately" developing a long-range transit system proposal.

OU-L Offers Workshops

Mrs. Betty Menson, Acting Assistant Director, announced that two summer workshops in home economics, courses never before available at Ohio University Lancaster, will be offered this summer at the local campus.

"Introduction to Child Development" (HECF 160) is a four credit hour course examining fundamental patterns of development and behavior during the prenatal period through adolescence. It will be offered Monday through Thursday from 9:00 until noon, July 22 through August 1.

This course satisfies requirements for certification of kindergarten teachers and would be a beneficial course for elementary education majors.

A second workshop in home economics will be offered from 1:30 until 4:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday, July 22 through August 1. "Readings in Child Development and/or Family Living", a three credit hour course, will have an independent study format examining basic research, theory writings, current controversies and trends relevant to growth and behavior of children and in family living. This workshop is available for both graduate and undergraduate credit.

HPER 270, "Teaching of Physical Education" will be offered the week of July 15 through July 19. The course may be taken for either two or three hours of credit. Class times will be 10:00-12:00 a.m. and 1:00-5:00 p.m. for three hours of credit, and 1:00-5:00 for only two credit hours.

Successful completion of the course will satisfy the necessary requirement in the Elementary Education curriculum.

Further information about the courses, and registration procedures, may be obtained by calling the campus at 654-6711.

Probe Tactics In Malone

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — National Collegiate Athletic Association investigators are probing the recruiting tactics used by hundreds of colleges to acquire the services of schoolboy basketball sensation Moses Malone.
Malone reportedly told the investigators that one coach offered him
$1,000 under the table to sign.

The 6-foot-11 center signed a grant-in-aid last Thursday to attend the University of Maryland.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch reported in its Sunday editions that Malone had given the NCAA investigators some damaging information on the recruiting methods of at least two schools. The newspaper said it had learned that Maryland wasn't one of them.

The NCAA investigators, Lynn Nance, a former FBI agent, and Bill Hunt, a former Texas sportswriter and a graduate of Southern Methodist University law school, arrived here Friday—just 24 hours after Malone had signed the Maryland grant-in-aid.

Nance and Hunt spent most of Friday morning with Malone and his mother,
Mrs. Mary Malone, the Times-
Dispatch said.

Malone refused to disclose anything about the conversation, just saying, "it was personal stuff."

Mrs. Malone, however, told friends about the conversation and one told the newspaper that, "Mrs. Malone said one coach offered Moses $1,000, which would be delivered to him though an intermediary. She also said that another coach provided him with a rental car for a period of time."

Aluminum Yachts To Seek Primacy

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The defending champion Intrepid, a wooden underdog, faced two sleek aluminum yachts today in the preliminary trials to select a U.S. entry for the 1974 America's Cup races.

The Courageous and the mariner, built to new specifications that permit aluminum hulls for the first time, are bidding to compete for international sailing's oldest prize, dating to 1851.

Jim Colbert Wins American Classic

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "One thing was on my mind," Jim Colbert said. "I wanted it all. I didn't care if I was second or 95th. I wanted it all and I was willing to take some chances to get it."

The chipper, gutsy little guy got it all—the title and a $34,000 first place check—on the second hole of a four-man sudden-death playoff in the $170,000 American Golf Classic.

He got it with a routine par five after

Ray Floyd's bold bid for a birdie turned into a bogey instead. "I was playing for birdie," Floyd said of the wind-blown third shot that caught the bank of a pond guarding the green and set up the bogey that let Colbert get away with the fourth title of his career Sunday.

"I'm excited," Colbert said. "I'm real excited. I've won before, but this is my first on national television. It's my first on a really great golf course. It's just great. Everything is great."

Colbert, 33, had to make a scrambling par on the last hole of regulation play, chipping over a bunker to within about 18 inches of the hole, to tie Floyd, a bitterly disappointed Forrest Fezler and veteran Gay Brewer for the top spot at 281.

That's one-over-par on the unyielding, 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course, a monster of a layout turned even longer and tougher by gusty, blustery winds, chill temperatures and rough still wet and heavy from heavy rains.

It was the first time since the Colonial Invitational of 1971 that a regular tour event—not including the U.S. Open—had been won at plus-par figures. And the four-man playoff was the largest since the Kemper Open of 1971.

Fezler and Brewer dropped out with bogeys on the first extra hole, Brewer three-putting and Fezler failing from a bunker.

The victory lifted Colbert's season's earnings to $73,000. Each of the playoff losers received $13,147.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The keen personal rivalry between Stan Smith and Jimmy Connors sizzled with fresh sparks today as the great and near-great began the two-week grind in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The brassy, 21-year-old Connors, who shares the No. 1 U.S. ranking with Smith, bristled at the suggestion that Smith, in winning over the weekend at Nottingham, might finally have shaken the "Connors jinx."

Braves Top Pawtucket In IL Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond allowed Pawtucket only one run in three games over the weekend as the Braves swept an International League series. Rain knocked out four of the weekend's 11 games.

Memphis beat Syracuse 6-5 Saturday but lost to the Chiefs 8-4 Sunday. Toledo smashed Tidewater 11-1 Sunday but was rained out Saturday and again in the second game Sunday. Rochester beat Charleston 5-3 Saturday and saw two washed away the next day.

Richmond got a two-hit shut-out performance from Wenty Ford in the first game as the Braves topped the Red Sox 2-0. Jamie Easterly got the win in the second game which ended 1-0, although Joe Frzenda came in to get the final out. Easterly gave up only four runs.

On Saturday, the Braves belted Pawtucket 4-1. The three victories moved Richmond to within two games of Memphis for the lead in the International League's southern division.

Sonny Jackson, Larry Howard and Larvell Blanks had the runs batted in Sunday for the Braves. Blanks drove in Howard for the only run of the second game.

Syracuse poured in five runs with two out in the top of the 9th to come from behind against Memphis. Hits by Satch Sanders, Jim Deidel, Fred Frazier and M. L. Prince were followed by a three-run homer by Otto Velez. It was his 13th four bagger.

Unser Takes
Schaefer Pole

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) —
Bobby Unser, no slouch as a speed merchant, has the front row pole position for Sunday's Schaefer 500-mile auto race and A.J. Foyt is disgruntled and unhappy.

Unser, at 40 the elder of two driving brothers from Albuquerque, N.M., drove four laps, or 10 miles, Saturday at an average speed of 182.500 miles per hour to claim an honor that most observers already had conceded to the legendary Foyt.

Foyt, who started No. 1 in the two previous 500-mile races this year that make up the United States Auto Club's
"Triple Crown" series, had been the odds-on pole favorite when qualifying opened to select 33 starters for this $400,000 event.

But the fabled Texan blew

Your Horoscope

Television Schedule

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): If you feel you are growing stale in the idea department, browse about in new areas of information. Hold discussions with those of similar interests.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Administrative and home duties need extra care. Some adverse influences prevail, so steer clear of antagonism and heated discussions.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Avoid anxiety. You may be opposed, but you have been before and succeed where you had to. Seek wise counsel when stymied.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Occupational and business matters should gain momentum, but be careful to avoid losses through haste, illogical thinking. Some "super" hours in which to advance.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Precision and perception needed now. Curb a tendency to wander from prescribed course; aim to understand both sides of controversial issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You could overstep limits now if too strong a desire for certain attainment causes you to strive and press beyond reasonable boundaries.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Mixed planetary influences. You may alternate between quick, aggressive moves and periods of slowing down, for no apparent reason. Aim at stabilization.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): A good day for launching new plans and projects. Of course, sensible precautions and complete understanding of your undertakings will be important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): An above-average day in certain areas; possibly trying in others. Meet all situations with equanimity. Don't anticipate difficulty; take whatever you meet in stride.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Capitalize on your clear-cut, smart perceptions. Direct your versatility into profitable channels. An all-around good day!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A fine day for artistic, literary and social interests. In all things, exploit your general know-how and finesse to the hilt.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You may have a desire to take off to "greener pastures" but think well before leaping the fence. Your desire may not be based on logic.

YOU BORN TODAY are sympathetic, idealistic, extremely sensitive and, basically, a serious thinker. Your quest for knowledge is never-ending, and you could succeed in either the scientific or educational field. If you choose science as a career, however, you would probably do best in medicine, for here you could complete your talents with your compassionate attitude toward your fellowman. You have a great love of heritage and tradition; would make an outstanding historian or dealer in antiques. Journalism and playwrighting would also prove excellent outlets for your talents. Two traits which you should try to overcome are lack of confidence in yourself and hypersensitivity. Birthdate of: Gen. Henry ("Hap") Arnold, U.S. Air Force; George Abbott, playwright, director.

Remember Plastic Sax

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — The old brass band ain't what it used to be — and, you may not know it, but it hasn't been for 17 years.

School marching bands have been switching to fiber glass sousaphones and one manufacturer here, C. G. Conn, now reports fiber glass as "top brass" in sousaphone sales.

At Michigan University, where the marching band made the switch 17 years ago, Director George Cavender likes the lighter weight of the new instruments since moving with on-field formations is as critical as the music.

Boone Needed Twain

LEASBURG, Mo. (AP) — Onondaga Cave on U.S. 66 here, where scenes for the film, "Tom Sawyer," were shot, was discovered by Daniel Boone in 1798.

"It seems that virtually every tourist has heard about Tom Sawyer but only a few have heard about Daniel Boone," says Bob Hudson, cave manager. "Boone needed a promotion man like Mark Twain."

Views On Television

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It seems weird in this disc jockey day and age, but there's a morning radio show here featuring a 10-piece band. A live one.

It's part of WSM's "Waking Crew," the local talk and music effort that starts its 75-minute version of reveille weekday mornings at 7:45 a.m.

The proceedings, held in a surprisingly unguarded studio where unwary visitors are apt to find themselves part of the day's act, has been on WSM for 22 years.

One of the last of its kind in the U.S., it's a stubborn holdout from the days listeners arose to "Don MacNeil's Breakfast Club" and not deejay chatter.

As WSM-AM's General Manager Len Hensel puts it, "The show is what we paid for the Moicians."

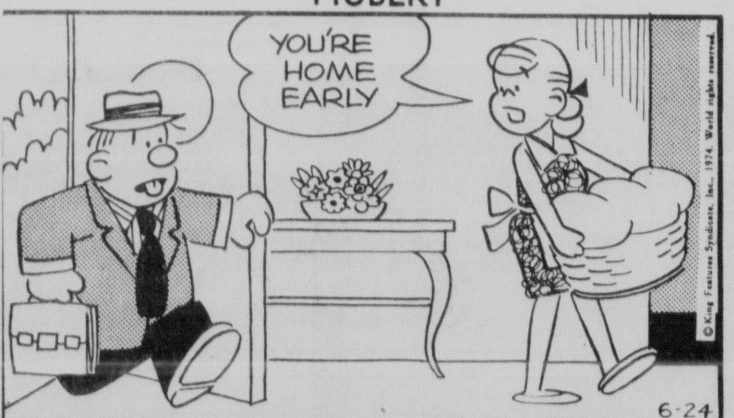

What makes this tribe a bit unusual — at least for those who think Nashville means only country music — is that its music is decidedly uncountry.

Last Monday, for example, the wares included "Bluesette," "I Cover The Waterfront," "Sing" from "Sesame Street" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

The contemporary approach aims at Nashville's urbanites, not the country fans WSM programs for at night, and the ratings show it works well, Hensel says.

"The show is nostalgic, but it's more than that," adds Teddy Bart, 38, the Pennsylvania-born host of the "Waking Crew" since 1972.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): If you feel you are growing stale in the idea department, browse about in new areas of information. Hold discussions with those of similar interests.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Administrative and home duties need extra care. Some adverse influences prevail, so steer clear of antagonism and heated discussions.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Avoid anxiety. You may be opposed, but you have been before and succeed where you had to. Seek wise counsel when stymied.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Occupational and business matters should gain momentum, but be careful to avoid losses through haste, illogical thinking. Some "super" hours in which to advance.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Precision and perception needed now. Curb a tendency to wander from prescribed course; aim to understand both sides of controversial issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You could overstep limits now if too strong a desire for certain attainment causes you to strive and press beyond reasonable boundaries.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Mixed planetary influences. You may alternate between quick, aggressive moves and periods of slowing down, for no apparent reason. Aim at stabilization.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A good day for launching new plans and projects. Of course, sensible precautions and complete understanding of your undertakings will be important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): An above-average day in certain areas; possibly trying in others. Meet all situations with equanimity. Don't anticipate difficulty; take whatever you meet in stride.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Capitalize on your clear-cut, smart perceptions. Direct your versatility into profitable channels. An all-around good day!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A fine day for artistic, literary and social interests. In all things, exploit your general know-how and finesse to the hilt.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You may have a desire to take off to "greener pastures" but think well before leaping the fence. Your desire may not be based on logic.

YOU BORN TODAY are sympathetic, idealistic, extremely sensitive and, basically, a serious thinker. Your quest for knowledge is never-ending, and you could succeed in either the scientific or educational field. If you choose science as a career, however, you would probably do best in medicine, for here you could complete your talents with your compassionate attitude toward your fellowman. You have a great love of heritage and tradition; would make an outstanding historian or dealer in antiques. Journalism and playwriting would also prove excellent outlets for your talents. Two traits which you should try to overcome are lack of confidence in yourself and hypersensitivity. Birthdate of: Gen. Henry ("Hap") Arnold, U.S. Air Force; George Abbott, playwright, director.

Remember Plastic Sax

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — The old brass band ain't what it used to be — and, you may not know it, but it hasn't been for 17 years.

School marching bands have been switching to fiber glass sousaphones and one manufacturer here, C. G. Conn, now reports fiber glass as "top brass" in sousaphone sales.

At Michigan University, where the marching band made the switch 17 years ago, Director George Cavender likes the lighter weight of the new instruments since moving with on-field formations is as critical as the music.

Boone Needed Twain

LEASBURG, Mo. (AP) — Onondaga Cave on U.S. 66 here, where scenes for the film, "Tom Sawyer," were shot, was discovered by Daniel Boone in 1798.

"It seems that virtually every tourist has heard about Tom Sawyer but only a few have heard about Daniel Boone," says Bob Hudson, cave manager. "Boone needed a promotion man like Mark Twain."

Views On Television

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It seems weird in this disc jockey day and age, but there's a morning radio show here featuring a 10-piece band. A live one.

It's part of WSM's "Waking Crew," the local talk and music effort that starts its 75-minute version of reveille weekday mornings at 7:45 a.m.

The proceedings, held in a surprisingly unguarded studio where unwary visitors are apt to find themselves part of the day's act, has been on WSM for 22 years.

One of the last of its kind in the U.S., it's a stubborn holdout from the days listeners arose to "Don MacNeil's Breakfast Club" and not deejay chatter.

As WSM-AM's General Manager Len Hensel puts it, "The show is what we paid for the Moicians."

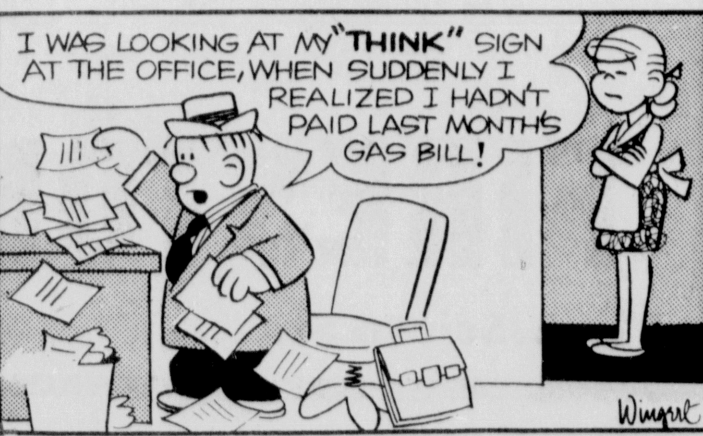

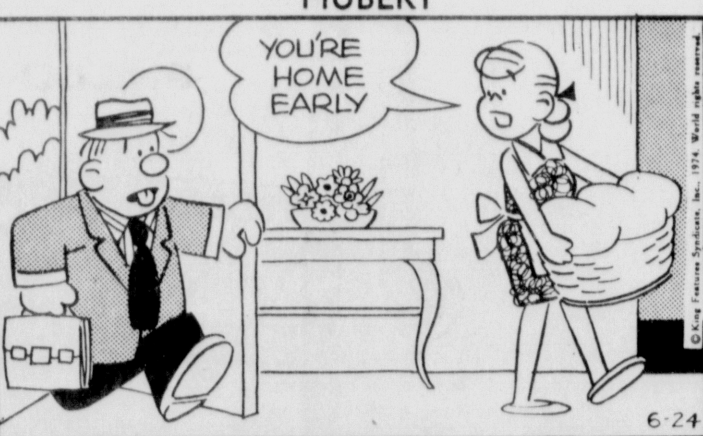

What makes this tribe a bit unusual — at least for those who think Nashville means only country music — is that its music is decidedly uncountrified.

Last Monday, for example, the wares included "Bluesette," "I Cover The Waterfront," "Sing" from "Sesame Street" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

The contemporary approach aims at Nashville's urbanites, not the country fans WSM programs for at night, and the ratings show it works well, Hensel says.

Weekend Accidents Investigated

Two persons received minor injuries in weekend accidents investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies. Clarence G. Robinson, 43, Pickerington, was cited for driving while intoxicated, in a single-car accident, 2:05 p.m. Saturday, on State Route 752.

Robinson was driving east on 752 when he failed to negotiate a curve going off the right side of the road striking a guard rail. The auto continued on into a fence.

Deputy J. Philip Brown investigated the incident.

Twenty-two-year-old Kathryn Cooper, Route 2, Amanda, was treated and released at Berger Hospital, for minor injuries received in a single-car accident, 3:30 p.m. Saturday, on the Circleville-Tarleton Road.

Traveling west on Circleville-Tarleton Road, Ms. Copper lost control of the auto on a curve, going off the road into a ditch.

Deputy James Deal was the investigating officer.

Harold T. Crabtree, 22, Route 1, Williamsport, was advised to contact a doctor by Deputy Lawrence Holt, when he was injured in a single-car accident, 10:20 p.m. Saturday.

Driving north on the Williamsport-Darbyville Road, Crabtree lost control of the vehicle, going off the right side of the road striking a telephone.

NFO Holds Picnic

The Pickaway County National Farmers Organization held a carry-in picnic at the Lawrence Carle residence attended by 26 members and their families.

Guest speakers for the evening included Bill Burr and Urban Schnipke, district and area grain representatives.

They discussed the current grain problem on a national basis and what local grain farmers could do to remedy the situation.

Bob Barnes, county grain chairman, reported that several more thousand bushels of grain had been consigned but quantity was down a little from previous months.

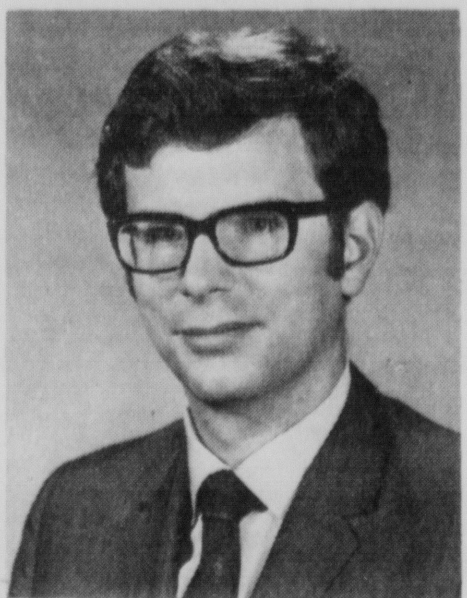

Don Conrad reported milk prices to the farmer had been on the decline but were on the upswing. He also explained the Minnesota-Wisconsin Series and how it affects the farmers in our areas.

Joe Carle accounted for the collection point. Farmers with livestock to send need to give an accurate report of how many they have to ship so he can estimate needs for a truckload.

The July meeting will be a family picnic at the home of Clyde Bidwell.

Six Persons Injured In 2-Car Wreck

Six persons were injured in a two-car accident at noon Saturday near the Little Walnut junction on Route 23. Rescue workers spent over half an hour freeing two of the injured from the wreckage.

According to a report made by investigating officers State Highway Patrolman L. P. Hardesty and Sgt. M. B. Staten, John Schiering, 25, Route 3, London, was northbound on Route 23 when a vehicle driven by Paul Rowland, 47, Grove City, entered the northbound lanes from the Little Walnut Road. Rowland apparently stopped at the junction of Route 23, then pulled out intending to turn south but struck the Schiering vehicle as he entered the northbound lanes.

Patricia A. Schiering, 22, and John M. Schiering, 2, both passengers in the Schiering auto, and Ollie Lemaster, 69, Route 2, Ashville, and Mary E. Rowland, passengers in the Rowland vehicle, were all injured as were the drivers of both vehicles.

All six of the people were taken to Berger Hospital for treatment of injuries. Mary and Paul Rowland were transferred to St. Anthony's Hospital in Columbus both suffering from broken pelvises. Mrs. Rowland also suffered a fractured nose.

The other four persons were treated and released from Berger's emergency room.

Rowland was cited by the Highway Patrol for failure to yield.

June 30 Is Deadline For FCIC Reports

Area farmers who are Federal Crop Insurance Corporation policyholders are reminded that the final date for reporting their acres of crops for insurance purposes is June 30.

Any crops that are reported after this date and suffered previous damage could result in no insurance coverage, explains Albert Dalton Jr., director of the contract service center, Indianapolis, Ind. In the five states served out of the Indianapolis center, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation has approximately 22,000 spring crop contracts with farmers protecting their crops against all natural hazards from planting until harvest.

Where is their dream house without more energy?

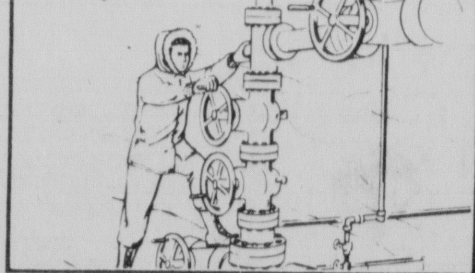

Unless all of the new sources of clean energy are made available soon, your dream house ... or your children's ... could be little more than a dream.

Of course, if you live in a house using natural gas now, you'll continue to get the gas you need for the appliances you're using ... or their replacements. People who already live in gas houses are lucky.

But America needs millions of new homes every year. And the home builders already have felt the effects of the gas shortage. In many areas of the country, builders can't get natural gas for all the new homes that must be built. And that adds to the supply problems of the other forms of energy. It doesn't leave the new home buyer much choice and means he could pay more for his new, non-gas home.

But, all forms of energy that America needs — gas, oil, coal, nuclear — are in short supply. And Americans should be concerned about that. You can help by learning more about the energy crisis and supporting efforts to provide America with enough energy to meet all its needs, including new and better housing.

Columbia Gas is working to help solve the energy crisis through Arctic exploration. The advancement of millions of dollars for rights to gas discovery has stimulated exploration and drilling activities in the Arctic. Commercially productive wells have been found. Huge pipelines remain to be built and Columbia is participating in their development.

COLUMBIA GAS

Gas is precious, pure energy ... use it wisely.

Where is their dream house without more energy?

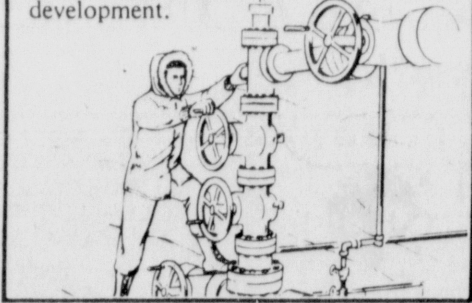

Unless all of the new sources of clean energy are made available soon, your dream house ... or your children's ... could be little more than a dream.

Of course, if you live in a house using natural gas now, you'll continue to get the gas you need for the appliances you're using ... or their replacements. People who already live in gas houses are lucky.

But America needs millions of new homes every year. And the home builders already have felt the effects of the gas shortage. In many areas of the country, builders can't get natural gas for all the new homes that must be built. And that adds to the supply problems of the other forms of energy. It doesn't leave the new home buyer much choice and means he could pay more for his new, non-gas home.

But, all forms of energy that America needs — gas, oil, coal, nuclear — are in short supply. And Americans should be concerned about that. You can help by learning more about the energy crisis and supporting efforts to provide America with enough energy to meet all its needs, including new and better housing.

Columbia Gas is working to help solve the energy crisis through Arctic exploration. The advancement of millions of dollars for rights to gas discovery has stimulated exploration and drilling activities in the Arctic. Commercially productive wells have been found. Huge pipelines remain to be built and Columbia is participating in their development.

COLUMBIA GAS
Gas is precious, pure energy ... use it wisely.
